

After Welcoming

Your Beloved Dog to Your Home ...

① Dog Registration (Once in a Lifetime)

Please register your dog within 30 days of getting it
Your license will be issued to you after registering

※ For puppies, please register them within 90 days after their birth

License

② Preventive Rabies Injection (Once a Year)

Please get the injections at sites designated by the city, and at places such as animal clinics.

Injection Slip

※ In cases where injection certificates (certificates of proof issued by a veterinarian) have been issued, please carry out the injection completion slip process at insurance places, as well as various branches.

③ Putting on license and injection slip

Licenses and injection slips also serve as identification tags when your dog becomes lost. Please be sure to attach them to your dog's collar.

※ If any of these rules are broken you will be charged a fine of 200,000 Yen

Other Information

🍀 In the event you have a dog that has already been registered (meaning you have adopted a previously owned that has been registered), you will need to go through the process of changing who the owner is..

🍀 Please do this at insurance places and various branches around the city.

In the event that your dog has gone missing, has died, or has bitten a person, please contact us with the number below written below.

Rabies

Every year more than 50,000 people in the world succumb to this terrible disease. You will get infected once bitten by a dog that carries rabies, and once it onsets, the chance of death is 100%

There hasn't been a case of this in Japan after 1957, but in 2006 two people who were traveling overseas were bitten by a dog and infected. After they returned, the disease onset and they both passed.

Manners and Training

Despite there being well trained dogs, as well as small dogs, there are still people who dislike dogs and think dogs are scary.

It is important to have a leash, but in order to react to sudden movements please use a short, not long, leash.

Should the dog defecate while on a walk, it is the owner's responsibility to clean it up and take it back home to dispose of it.

Microchips

A microchip is a tracking device that is 2mm in diameter and about 12mm in length.

After installing the microchip, please register the owner information with AIPO.

If by any chance the dog were to become separated from its owner, we can identify the owner by the dog's individual number, and the chances of returning the dog to you become higher.

Disaster Prevention Measures·Evacuating together

At times like this the only one who can protect the pet is the owner.

The environment at evacuation shelters is different from normal. You can see a lot of pets crying and scaring other people. In order to keep pets from randomly howling, and keep them calm even if people they don't know and other animals are around, it is important that you train them for things like this everyday.

Both Abuse and Abandonment are CRIMES!!

Harming and killing your pets with out a justifiable reason are considered crimes. Things such as abandoning your pets without treating injuries and illness, as well as not providing sufficient food and water are also considered to be abuse.

Of course an owner must have love for their animal and treat it properly, but they also have the responsibility of raising it until the end. In cases where you can no longer continue to raise it, take responsibility and please find it a new owner. Please do not abandon your pets!!

A pet abandoned by its owner CANNOT survive.

